THE ANNUAL MEETING.

First mo., 10th, 1868.

The Fourth Annual Meeting was held this evening at 8 o'clock, in Liberty Hall, Lombard Street below Eighth, Dillwyn Parrish, President, in the chair.

Bishop Campbell, of the A. M. E. Church, earnestly led the audience in prayer for a blessing upon the Home, after which the President briefly spoke of its objects, &c.

The Secretary then read the Annual Report of the Board of Managers, as below, which was approved and referred to the incoming Board for its action and care.

THIRD ANNUAL REPORT.

The time has arrived, in accordance with the Constitution, when it becomes the duty of the Board of Managers to address the Contributors in regard to the condition of the Home for Aged and Infirm Colored Persons.

Three years have elapsed since, with some fears of its success, the effort was made which resulted in the establishment of our Institution.

It may now be regarded as permanently organized, for we cannot suppose that a community noted, as is that of Philadelphia, for its philanthropic movements, will allow of such a Home to be closed for want of means to sustain it.

We had hoped that each year we could add something to our fund, which in the course of time would allow of the purchase of a larger building, but during the year just past we have not been enabled to do this.

The receipts have not been sufficient to meet our expenses, thus requiring us to use some of the funds contributed the previous year, which we had intended adding to the permanent fund.

The Treasurer's Report, which will be presented for your consideration, will inform you as to the state of our finances, and will, we think, justify the assertion that, in the present condition of affairs, and with the past year's experience in collecting, it would be hazardous to the permanency of the institution to attempt any enlargement of our building, or any fresh purchase at this time.

While believing this, however, we would urge on our friends and the public the importance, we might almost say the necessity, of providing more enlarged accommodations so soon as it may be practicable. With the best possible arrangement we can only care for 19 inmates, while the number of applicants on our list is more than sufficient to treble that number.

There are many in our community of extensive means, to whom we would make known our need, and would urge upon them not to defer until after death the appropriation of funds which they can well spare while living. We believe that such would realize the pleasure there is in doing good, and come to appreciate the doctrine of Scripture, that "it is more blessed to give than to receive." The number of our inmates is now 18, with one vacancy, occasioned by the decease of Sarah Easton, at the advanced age of 108 years. She was born at Lewistown, Del., in 1759, and when 16 years of age came to Philadelphia.

It is a consolation to know that these aged ones, after passing through many trials and vicissitudes, are comforted and protected in the closing period of life by the shelter which this institution affords.

With the above and one or two other exceptions, the health of the inmates has been remarkably good for persons at their period of life, for which blessing and care our gratitude is due to our Heavenly Father.

In the Third month last our esteemed fellow-Manager, Clayton Miller, who had been connected with the Home from its origin, was summoned to his eternal abode. His memory will be cherished by us as one sincerely interested in the welfare of this unpretending charity.

Religious meetings have been held, with scarcely any omission, on First day mornings, and religious opportunities have been had on several other occasions by members of different persuasions.

The services of Dr. James Collins during the year have been very valuable, and his attention to the inmates merits our thanks.

The Matron also deserves our acknowledgments for the efficient manner in which she has discharged the duties of her arduous and trying position.

An Act of Incorporation has been granted by the Court, which will be submitted for the approval of the contributors. Also some amendments to the By-Laws and Rules, which were found by experience to be unsatisfactory.

In conclusion, we would express our appreciation of the kindness of our friends who have heretofore enabled us to carry on the work, and earnestly solicit a continuance of their aid, and with a firm reliance on the protecting care of that Being who has, we believe, originated this movement for the homeless and friendless, we commit them, with their spiritual and temporal interests, into His holy keeping.

The Treasurer now read his Report, which was approved by the Meeting.

It is as follows:

ALFRED H. LOVE,
WM. WHIPPER.

Philadelphia, 1st mo. 7, 1868.

The proposed amendments were separately considered by the Meeting, and, on motion, approved.

The Act of Incorporation, as granted by the Court, was now read by the Secretary. It was listened to with close attention, and was, on motion of a member, approved and adopted by the Association as the Charter of Incorporation of the Home for Aged and Infirm Colored Persons.

After reading these several Reports, the President appointed J. M. Truman, Jr., M. A. Shaw, Wm. Moore, T. E. Chapman, A. H. Love, and Margaretta Forten, a Committee to bring forward names of persons to serve the ensuing year as Officers and Managers, who reported those printed on second page, which were all approved by the Meeting.

After listening to interesting addresses from J. Walker Jackson and T. Doughty Miller, the meeting adjourned.

M. BALDERSTON, Secretary.

J. W. JACKSON, during his remarks, said I can say Amen most heartily to the advice in the Report, to give while you are living. It is not well to put such things off.

He sympathized most deeply with all efforts for the depressed and down-trodden; much more with these than with any other, for he believed the way to elevate all was to lift the lowest, and all would improve together. He thought, when looking at these things, of Him who, though he thought it not robbery to be equal with God, yet took upon him the form of a servant—of whom it was said, His gospel should be preached to the poor. He thought of Him who lived to make men pure and holy, and who died for us all.

The great march is now onward for universal liberty, and it cannot be stayed. Men may set back the hands of a clock, but they cannot set back the clock which God has set for a sign in the heavens. This keeps striking the hours, ringing out the false, ringing in the right—ringing out the wrong, ringing in the true. He was sorry he was not rich—he would endow us to-night. He hoped some would do it, and then see how much better they would feel after it. He hoped by this time next year help would be fully given, so that we could say, “What hath God not wrought” for us?

T. DOUGHTY MILLER said that, although too late to make an address, he wished to attest his earnest sympathy with the work.

Pure charity is that which gives, expecting no return; so it seemed to him that thus providing for those who could not make any return was pure, Christian charity indeed.

The Saviour had set this example, that of constantly doing good, and that to those from whom nothing could be expected in return, and it is our privilege and duty to follow His blessed example.
