

[page 1]

One Hundred and Twenty-Two
Madison Avenue

My precious daughter,

I wrote my s.d. letter a little while ago so hurriedly that I didn't stop to tell you how eagerly I am looking forward to your coming- It will be perfect to have you- you know that, but I'll tell you just the same-

I have to let them know here before 3 p.m. if I give up my room-

[page 2]

so be sure & let me know in time to do that. It seems ridiculous not to move to the Prince George at once, but I don't want to get homesick, & I'm afraid I couldn't keep it in a hotel- If you & I go there together I should "settle" and then not mind it after you leave so as this is all "treatment" I've decided not to bother over the extra pennies I'm spending here.

I've just had lunch & am now going to my room for "rest hour" then out for a walk- supper around the corner at that little greenery place- & Lulu will call for me in the motor at 8.10. She brought the tickets for C.P. this morning- invited me to dinner too, but there will be 10 (some friends of Billy's), so I thought I would save up for my evening, and declined with thanks.

[page 3]

I found a letter from Shippen yesterday at the York Club (Mrs. Davis's) it was like a sea-breeze in Sahara- so welcome- what a darling he is! gets lovelier & lovelier all the time. How soon shall I see you?

Your loving Mother-