

The Washington
Washington D.C.

Well darling. Dr Hamilton and I tried hard to get you. We walked towards the church + I telephoned to Grace Dodge (3 times) and waited near the hotel Washington counter where you were to leave the Atlantic Monthly - but no you - she was very disap - we lunched at a [written horizontally at top of page: day morn. please call up the office of American Relief of German children + orphans (?) - Good bye my own beloved daughter. From Mother.]

cafeteria, Edith H. also + Miss Louise Van g - all demanding you - I asked Dr H. for tomorrow lunch at Women's University Club to meet A.P. She accepted. I told her how lovely A.P.'s spirit is and she said she had heard quite the contrary about her. I am keen to have them meet - both such lovely people.

Our brkfst in the country was delightful - 20 of us about 10 or 12 foreign delegates + some of N.W.P. We were all the guests of the English delegation and N.W.P. the only American. I told Dr H. and she was quite surprised. I didn't tell her that I was equally so. An eminent lady in England was our hostess, Miss Ford I mean she paid for it all. We went out + returned in one of them great big motor buses. I longed for you + the children for we passed all the embassies + the man told us all the places + lunches - the country man too perfect. You should have seen A.P. with our [cany goal?] R. opponent (the English delegate, one Dr Williams from Newcastle) talking to her (me too) under a tree sitting on the ground after brkfst. The way she (the delegate) rec'd the information A.P. gave was choice. She's keen now to see some pamphlets and results of N.W.P. research.

When Maud told me you'd taken the 2 o'cl'k train I had a big pang and wished I'd gone too. I've written now to Terence - so that's all right, about Penal meeting at Oxford. I told her my troubles + asked her to get Dr K. to take it so you need not communicate with her dear. I'm still rather bothering about the luncheon on Tuesday - + that may bring me up - but if you don't hear by Tues.