How satisfied were you with the tour?

- 4 people gave it 5
- Another wrote: 'The tour was informative; more so, because I learn some new history from our visits.'

What was your favorite part of the tour?

- Touring on the bus
- 1st stop, 2nd St. at the original of Concilio
- The information given us by Ariel
- Learning about the Spring Garden riots, a story I did not know
- I did not have a favorite part. I appreciated and enjoyed all of the information and places we stopped. It was quite interesting!

Was there anything about the tour that you didn't like?

- No! (2)
- All of it was terrific!
- We could have taken more time at each stop. It would have been great to be able to sit down at a quiet spot at some of the sights rather than stand on the street.
- Jump on and off

How can we improve the tour?

- Which should do some pic – I know they are need for the Funders. [sic]
- Very interesting and educational tour. I believe that adding 30 minutes would be beneficial without losing the interest of the tour participant.
- As above – which was "We could have taken more time at each stop. It would have been great to be able to sit down at a quiet spot at some of the sights rather than stand on the street."
- Add a handout with addresses and a map to follow along. Ariel mentioned he had several other places he would have taken the group if there was time. That list would have been interesting too.
- Maybe make the tour longer next times. There are more sites to see!

Do you have any other comments?

- No/blank (2)
- There's so much history about the Latino communities that I never knew. Ariel is very knowledgeable and covered a lot of information in a short amount of time.
- The tour could/should be the basis of using the archives at Taller and HSP.
- One of the things that struck me was the similarities in immigrant experiences. I live in South Philly and many of the institutions you mentioned where [sic] developed among Italians who settled there (for example, banks that catered to people from the same towns in Italy). My grandparents were Russian Jews who immigrated to New York in the late 1880s. Many community self-help institutions were around to help them as well. In thinking about our project, I wonder if something can be said demonstrated about these similarities.

In addition, two emails received:

- Last Saturday's field trip to sites of Puerto Rican history and culture was exceptional. I learned so much about the Puerto Rican experience in Philadelphia during the 20th century.
- I loved it
