View from the East end of Queen's Hotel.

ANDY, universally acclaimed the most picturesque spot in the British Empire, offers her visitors hotel accommodation that is second to none in the east.

THE QUEEN'S HOTEL, KANDY, which, from the time of its foundation in 1841, has always been the great hostelry of the central province of Ceylon, has recently been partly rebuilt, greatly enlarged and improved. Here the traveller finds luxurious quarters and a perfect cuisine amid the choicest scenery and the most charming climate that any tropical country can provide. The site is in every respect convenient and picturesque. Occupying a commanding position at the north-west corner of the lovely lake, the hotel is adjacent to many places of interest in the history of the oldest dynasty the world has ever known; amongst them the venerable temple that is hallowed by the great buddhist palladium, reverenced by five hundred millions

The interior appointments include a verandah or vestibule-lounge, no less than 420 feet long, which overlooks the lake; a magnificent billiard room 60 by 40 feet, containing four tables; spacious dining, reading and drawing rooms; all rooms are elegantly furnished and fitted with fans; double rooms (bath attached) with balcony; private suites of apartments consisting of sitting room and bedrooms (with balcony), dressing room and bath room. Electric light and bells throughout, and elevators to all floors. The accommodation extends to 350 visitors.

CONVENIENT POSITION.

The Queen's Hotel is within two minutes' drive of the railway station. All trains are met by Queen's Hotel Porters and Carriages.

MODERATE CHARGES FOR APARTMENTS. Single bedrooms from Rupees 3 (4s.) a day; double bedrooms from Rupees 6 (8s.). These tariff rates apply only to visitors taking their meals in the hotel.

ATTENDANCE. No charge is made for attendance. The attendance of the best trained native servants, in both the public and private rooms, will be found to meet the requirements of the most exacting traveller. No importunities or demands for gratification on the part of servants are allowed.

GOOD TABLE. The culinary department is under a chef of considerable attainments who exercises a system of elaborate control over his army of subordinates, with the result that the excellencies of the Queen's Hotel Table are an unfailing satisfaction to the visitors.

PASSENGERS ON ARRIVAL AT COLOMBO.

IMPORTANT TO To ensure accommodation at the Queen's Hotel, Kandy, letters or telegrams should be sent in advance, and as long notice as possible should be given. A Queen's Hotel Messenger boards all passenger ships on arrival at Colombo, and travels with parties desirous of proceeding at once to Kandy, affording them all the assistance and information they need.

The distance is 74 miles. The fares are First Class Single, Rupees 6 (8s.); First Class Return, Rupees 9 (12s.); Second Class Single. Rupees 4 (5s. 4d.); Second Class Return, Rupees 6 (8s.). First and Second Class Return Tickets are available for return within one month inclusive of the day of issue and day of return.

SPECIAL TRAINS.

Special Trains will be provided from Colombo to Kandy and back on payment of a minimum charge of fifty first class return fares (£30, or Rs. 450).

Application must be made to the General Manager, Colombo, or to the Agents of the Steamship. The run takes a little over three hours each way. The Manager of the Oueen's Hotel, Kandy, should be informed by wire of the engagement of special trains.

A method whereby the pleasure of parties travelling by special train may be enhanced and time saved, is to instruct the guard to stop at Peradeniya Gardens, four miles from Kandy. Here the Manager of the Queen's Hotel, if so instructed by wire, will have carriages to meet passengers, who will then drive through the Royal Botanic Gardens and thence to Kandy through some of the most interesting road scenery of the district.

A short description of the Railway Journey to Kandy

By Henry W. Cave, M.A., F.R.G.S.

HOUSANDS of people who call at the port of Colombo on their voyage to or from Australia and other countries, find time for a trip to Kandy, the mountain capital of Ceylon; thousands more would do so if they knew how beautiful and how pleasantly accessible it is. To the foot of the mountain pass we travel through a fascinating panorama of lowland scenery. Those to whom this is the first experience of travel in a tropical country cannot fail to feel enchanted by the alternating scenes of quaint husbandry, glimpses of villages embosomed in palms, magnificent groups of tropical trees, and particularly with the effect of the deep recesses, occurring at frequent intervals, where cultivation extends between masses of grand forest. We proceed somewhat rapidly through the lowlands occasionally obtaining a view of a young Tea Estate amidst the palm groves and rice fields, or a newly planted Rubber Estate, until the fifty-second mile from Colombo, where, at Rambukkana, the ascent into the Kandyan mountains begins, and the beauty of the landscape approaches the sublime. If Ceylon presented no other spectacle of interest to the traveller it would still be worth his while to visit Kandy if only to see the panorama that unfolds itself as the train moves upwards in its winding and intricate course on the scarped sides of the mountains overlooking the Dekanda valley.

At one moment, on the edge of a sheer precipice, we are gazing downwards some thousand feet below; at another we are looking upwards at a mighty crag a thousand feet above; from the zigzags by which we climb the mountain sides fresh views appear at every turn; far-reaching valleys edged by the soft blue ranges of distant mountains and filled with luxuriant masses of dense forest, relieved here and there by the vivid green terraces of the rice fields; cascades of lovely flowering creepers, hanging in festoons from tree to tree and from crag to crag; above and below deep ravines and foaming waterfalls dashing their spray into mist as it falls into the verdurous abyss; fresh mountain peaks appearing in ever-changing grouping as we gently wind along the steep gradients; daring crossings from rock to rock, so startling as to unnerve the timid as we pass over gorges cleft in the mountain side and look upon the green depths below, so near the edge of the vertical precipice that a fall from the carriage would land us sheer sixteen hundred feet below; the lofty Talipot is flourishing on either side; the scattered huts and gardens, and the quaint people about them, so primitive in their habits which vary little from those of two thousand years ago—these are some of the features of interest as we journey into the Kandyan district.

The precipitous mountain of Allagalla, which we illustrate, is the most conspicuous feature of the landscape. Our train creeps along primeval manners and customs are yet uninfluenced by the march of western civilisation.

Allagalla is always majestic, but most beautiful immediately after excessive rainfall, when it is literally besprinkled with cataracts, some of which burst forth many hundreds of feet above the railway, and dash upon its steep side of granite. The track is visible in our picture like a belt passing around the rock. The peak towers aloft 2,500 feet above us, while the beautiful valley lies a thousand feet below. On the far side of that peak lies Hataraliyadda, a warm but radiant valley, where into the valleys some thousand feet below, increasing in volume and gathering enormous impetus as they pass under the line in deep fissures. Unsettled weather is extremely frequent and is productive of an endless variety of cloud and storm effects over the wonderful valley which undulates below until in the far distance it is backed by the rugged mountains opposed to Allagalla and which reach a greater height. At one time a vast sea of mists is rolling in fleecy clouds over the lowland acres and the summits of the hills are standing out from it like wooded islands; at another every shape of the beautiful landscape is faultlessly defined and every colour is vivid beneath the tropical sun.

Our attention will perhaps be mostly attracted to the Dekanda valley. The terraced rice fields, the beautiful trees, plants and creepers upon the slopes beneath us, the distant mountains rising in tiers on all sides, and o'erhung with vapours whose forms and contrasts of tone from the deepest black to the purest white are almost always present, the curious shapes displayed by the heights—all these contribute to make our slow progress seem all too rapid.

We are now in the freshness of mountain air and have left behind us the steamy low-country, where the simmering heat, although the efficient cause of the beautiful features of the landscape, is nevertheless very trying to our energies. For thirteen miles we have been slowly crawling round the mountain sides, ever moving upwards, till at length, through a narrow pass, we emerge upon one of the ledges of the mountain system where the brave Kandyans held their capital for centuries against all the attempts of Europeans to take it. An ancient prophecy was current amongst them that whoever should pierce the rock and make a road into Kandy from the plains would receive the kingdom as his reward. The prophecy was at length fulfilled by the British, who made the road, pierced the rock and secured the safe and permanent possession of the prize. The scene of the exploit is now before us. From the train we see the road and the pierced rock. The eminence rising above this rock is known as Scouts' Hill from the circumstance that the Kandyans jealously guarded this gate to their kingdom with their forces always in readiness, should any enemy appear from the low-country.

A lofty column comes into view as we arrive at the top of the pass. This is not, as is often supposed, in commemoration of the introduction of the railway, but a memorial to Captain Dawson, R.E., who planned and superintended the construction of the road. It was erected in 1832

At Peradeniya New the world renowned Royal Botanic Gardens are reached, famed alike for their usefulness and their beauty. Here in a situation perfectly ideal, from whatever point of view it is regarded, is a marvellous collection of living specimens of the flora of the whole tropical world. Entrance is free from sunrise to sunset.

Upon arrival at Kandy the visitor who has but a short time to spare should consult the manager of the Queen's Hotel as to the best things to be seen according to the time at disposal, while those who have leisure should consult "The Book of Ceylon," by Henry W. Cave, or other reliable books to be found at the hotel, and thus be introduced to the many interesting temples and points of vantage that abound in this most fascinating district, where endless variety characterises the landscape and vivid contrast the foliage, while the scenes of life that greet us have nothing in common with the western world.

UNIVERSITY OF JERUSALEM.

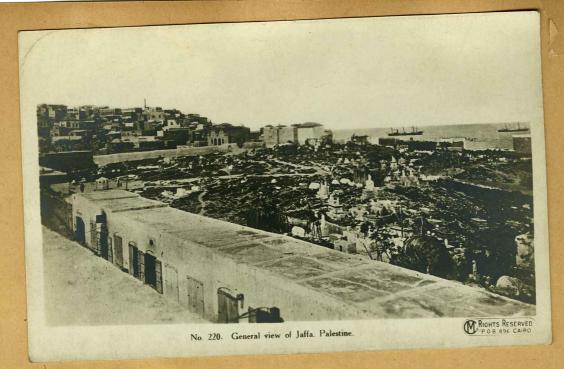

LAYING OF FOUNDATION STONES.

The ceremony of the laying of the foundation stones of the Hebrew University or Jerusalem took place on Mount Scopus on July 24 (15 Ab, 5078), in the presence of the Commander-in-chief, of representative officers from the French and Italian contingents and from the American Red Cross Commission, an immense concourse of soldiers, including a detachment from the Jewish of soldiers, including a detachment from the Jewish Battalion, and civilians. Among the latter, who were for the most part Jews, were also a number of representatives of other religious communities of Jerusalem. There were twelve stones symbolically laid by Jews, one by Dr. Weiszman on behalf of the Zionist Communission, nine by the Rabbis and the representatives of the Hebrew Communities of Jerusalem and of Jaffa, and by representatives of the Colonies, of the Teachers, of the Kising Generation (which was appropriately represented by very young children), of the Writers of Hebrew, of the Artisans and Labourers, of the Hebrew soldiers, and of the Hebrew Scientists. Two more were laid on behalf of Baron Eamond de Rothschild, the great soldiers, and of the Hebrew Scientists. Two more were laid on behalf of Baron Edmond de Rothschild, the great benefactor of the colonies, and of Isaac Goldberg, whose generosity had made possible the acquisition of the site.

In addition to these twelve, two complementary stones were laid by the Bishop of Jerusalem and the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, indicative of the good-will felt by the Christian and Moslem neighbours of the new University versity.

The striven-for a thousand times,
By hosts from widely-varied climes—
From those same fields of Palestine
This day our hearts to you incline!

From shrines of old Jerusalem,
And round the fields of Bethlehem,
Those fields whose Shepherds gladly sought
Their Infant King and homage brought
When first was heard that Christmas Song,
Breathed sweetly by the Angel throng:

Of "Peace on earth, goodwill to men"
(Oh! when shall earth that peace attain?)
But through the battle's noise and din
We catch the strains of that sweet hymn
Like rainbow shining through the rain,
Forecasting peace to men again.

The Return of the Children

ROM the desert to which, nearly four years ago, they were driven by the Turks to perish, come the children of Armenia—those that are left of them. In groups of twos and threes they come, thin and hungry, clad only in dirty rags. With them sometimes are their mothers; more often—their fathers having been butchered, their mothers carried into slavery to die of abuse they are orphans.

In the dark months of 1915 these children were forced at the point of Turkish bayonets down the long and corpse-strewn path of deportation to the Arabian desert. Many of their number died beneath the blazing sun. Many were clubbed to death by the Turkish guards. Others were thrown to their death by their mothers, driven insane by suffering.

The survivors have barely existed. Their food has consisted of roots and – think of it!—fragments from refuse heaps and the rotting corpses of animals, themselves dead of starvation.

In equal misery are the children of the refugees who fled into the fastnesses of the Caucasus mountains when the deportations began. There are now about 330,000 refugees in this one region, so starved that some, according to official statements, have resorted to cannibalism.

Throughout all of Asia Minor the story of destitution is much the same. Armenians, Syrians, Jews, Persians and Greeks — men, women, and children — are dying by hundreds every day of starvation and disease.

THE ARMISTICE IN JERUSALEM.

TE DEUM AT ST. GEORGE'S CATHEDRAL.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT).

JERUSALEM, Nov. 18.

A solemn service of public thanksgiving for the complete victory and conclusion of hostilities was held in St. George's Cathedral, Jerusalem, on Sunday, Nov-Few who were present will ember 19. forget this most remarkable occasion on which representatives of many diverse nations, churches and religions met for the common purpose of a great thanksgiving. iAll classes and communities in Jerusalem were represented—religious, political, civil and philanthropic. The Archbishop of Sinai and the Archimandrites of the Greek Church sat together with the Bishops and Priests of the other Christian Churches. Armenian, Coptic, Syrian. Abyssinian and members of the native Protestant Church. The Mufti represent-ing the Moslems and the Chief Rabbi of the Jews united with us in this solemn service. The Italian, French and American representatives and the Zionists joined with the Chief Administrator of Occupied Enemy Territory, and the Governor of Jerusalem, as representatives of their The Mayor and Judges of the city and municipal officials, and representatives of six Christian and Moslem clubs also had their place. There were delegates from the American Colony, from the Syria and Palestine Relief Fund and from the American Red Cross Commission. As was natural the greater part of the assembly were members of the British Army. Fifty two units were represented, and though the Cathedral was filled to its utmost limits, even overflowing into the courtyard and through the vestries, there were many who were unable to find room.
All that was possible was done to make the service a memorable one. The courtyard was hung with flags and wreaths. Wreaths of flowers were placed over the doors and the chancel screen. The Boy doors and the chancel screen. Scouts paraded outside the Cathedral, and the American Colony band played in the cloisters for an hour before the service

The service as conducted by the Bishop's Chaplain, the Rev. J.E. Wright, the prayers being read by the Rev. E. Evans, C.F., the Army Chaplain for the Jerusalem district. The Rev. W. Wilson Cash, Senior Chaplain on the Palestine front, preached the sermon.

It was a simple service and yet the well-known hymns and Psalms seemed to have a new and fuller meaning. After the processional hymn "O God, our help in ages past," the congregation stood in silence with bowed heads while the choir rendered softly the Nunc Dimittis in commeoration of those who have laid down their lives in the great cause. The Psalms were 126 and 150. The Military Governor read the lesson from the opening verses of Isaiah XL and then a solemn Te Deum was sung, "We praise Thee, O God, we acknowledge Thee to be the Lord." Psalm 126, verses 1 and 2, formed the text for the sermon in which the preacher dwelt on the dawn of a new era and the great opportunities and responsibilities that lie before us.

The American visitors are a remarkably fine corps of men and women. Some of them have had wonderful experiences, dating back to a period before America entered the war, in ministering to the wounded at various battle-fronts. Now that their own country has taken up arms against the Hun, they are pursuing their Samaritan work with redoubled enthusiasm.

At a concert attended by a number of these honouredvisitors, a British speaker referred to them in fervid terms as our "cousins." One of them rose at once to make a correction. "We are not cousins," he said; "we are brothers." The war has brought all English-speaking folk together as one big family.

These visitors are officially known as the Red Cross "Palestine" Commission; and in this connection a pretty story is told. A Durban schoolgirl, relating to her teacher that she had seen the American soldiers, explained that they were "all going to Paradise!"

AMERICAN RED CROSS MISSION.

· VISITS AROUND BEIRA.

Something more has been done to make the stay of the contingent of the American Red Cross Mission in Beira a pleasant one. Two of the outstanding features of the visit were a run out to the Manga ridge on Wednesday and a motor-boat trip up the Buzi river yesterday as far as the Inhanguvo Sugar Estates, both of which were greatly enjoyed.

His Excellency the Governor and Mme. Pery de Lind entertained Lieut .-Col. E. St. John Ward and the leading members of his staff of doctors and nurses to dinner on Wednesday evening at the Residency, the following being present :- Nurses Madeira and Jessup, of the Palestine Mission; Mrs. Montgomery, Mrs. Gordon Brown, Mrs. Pery de Lind (Gerardo), Mrs. Limpo de Lacerda, Miss Maria José Gaivão, Miss Maria da Luz Gaivão; Lieut.-Col. St. John Ward, Capt. Bacon, and Capt. Clark of the Palestine Mission; Major Montgomery (Acting Vice-Consul for Great Britain), Commander Bell, Col. Granger (Chief of the Military Department) Dr. Pereira Vilar, Dr. Augusto Rola, Lieut. Bandeira de Lima, and Messrs. J. Oliveira da Silva, Gerardo Pery de Lind, and Luiz Pery de Lind.

The run to Manga on Wednesday was made by! the narrow-guage train, which carried the members of the Mission, including Colonel Ward and Lieut. Bandeira de Lima, A.D.C., representing the Governor, while the representations of the British community, including Mr. B. T. Carson and Captain E. C. Cocks and some thirty ladies who had undertaken to provide tea at Mr. Lawley's house on the ridge mostly went out on their own railcars, including Mrs. Montgomery, wife of the Acting Vice-Consul for Great Britain; Mesdames Gordon Brown, Bell, Loram, McDonald, Murphy, Evans, Koster, Alcock, Lobley, Fraser, Garlicke, and Flemner, and Misses McDonald and Kebble.

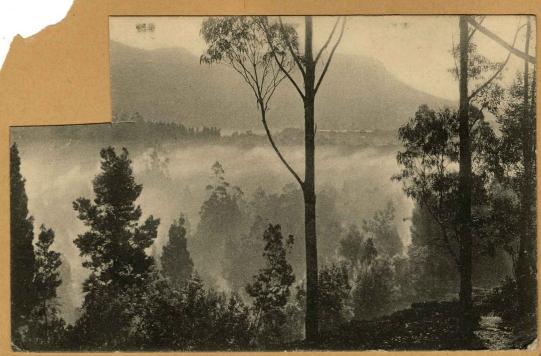

The visitors were highly interested in the tropical surrounding of Manga, and their admiration was evoked by the masses of giant water lilies and gladioli, picked from the veld below the ridge, which gave a splendid appearance to the dining-room table. The front of the house was draped with the American, Portuguese, and British flags. During the afternoon, Colonel Ward expressed his thanks for the kind hospitality which the members of the Mission had received since their arrival in Beira. The party got back to town at nightfall, after having spent a most delightful afternoon.

The trip up the Buzi yesterday was even more unique to the visitors, or, as one of the lady members of the Mission hailing from old Virginia expressed it, it was their first glimpse of the real Africa they had read about. On this occasion the party numbered nearly sixty, including Captain McKellar and the doctor of the steamer. Two boats were necessary to convey so large a party, one being the Lily and the other the Gladys, belonging respectively to Mr. T. W. Crowther and Captain Cocks, who skippered their own craft. The flotilla left the jetty at 9.15 and headed for the main entrance to the Buzi round the buoy against a very strong ebb tide, which of course meant a stiff drive all the way up the tidal stream to the Inhanguvo Estates, which were reached at 1.45 p.m. Here the party was met at the pier by Mr. N. Harper, the general manager, Mrs. A. Parker, Dr. Archer e Silva, Mr. Leggat, the chief engineer, and others. After the usual introductions, the party proceeded to Mr. Harper's house, where refreshments were provided, and after lunch an inspection was made of the sugar factory and all the processes for turning the juice of the cane from the wide-spreading fields into the household com-modity. The inspection took up some time, and after a brief survey of the estate and Colonel Ward had expressed to Mr. Harper his appreciation of what he had seen the party re-embarked for Beira, which was safely reached at nightfall. The return journey was made through the Creek into the bay. The afternoon being a magnificent one, calm and clear, with an almost cloudless sky overhead, the passage through the inarrow waterway was one to be remembered. As the leading boat, traversing the middle of the channel under the skillful control of the native coxswain, passed between the overhead foliage, new vistas of tropical beauty opened out at each turn in the stream, and the visitors were not slow in expressing their delight at the varying prospect. As they entered the Creek the chattering of masses of many-hued birds was the only sound that broke in upon the stillness of the fading day, and when the boats, moving swiftly on their way to the sea, had to make a sudden swerve to escape a great hippopotamus which was disporting in the middle of the fairway land numbers of crocs-one of these a very big fellow—were seen lying on the banks, the visitors felt that the description of the nurse from old Virginia about hit the mark.

This afternoon the members of the Mission are to be the guests of the ladies' section of the Beira Golf Club, when two competitions will be held, for which Dr. M. de Lecerda and Mr. A. C. Cook, the hon. secretary of the Club, have offered prizes.

COMMISSION TO PALESTINE THE AMERICAN RED CROSS S. No. 12980 Jerusalem.

January 1918.

MOVEMENT ORDERS FOR

Miss Edith Madeira, Chief Nurse,

American Red Cross Commission to Palestine.

Miss Edith Madeira, Chief Nurse, American Red Cross Commission to Palestine, has been serving in Palestine since June last, and is now proceeding via Egypt to America, where she will report to the Headquarters of the American Red Cross forher discharge from service.

It is expected that Miss Madeira will proceed by the most direct route to New York and except for her two weeks' leave of absence in Egypt, should not delay on the way more than is necessary for proper connections.

Any facilities that can be shown to Miss Madeira in securing necessary transportation will be very much appreciated. She should report whenever possible to the local representatives of the American Red Cross and secure cooperation from them in pursuing her journey. With her will go Miss Anne O'Malley and Miss Jessie G. Paterson, two of our nurses who are in a similar way returning to America at the expiration of their service in Palestine.

E. St. John Ward

Acting Commissioner.
